

South-African singer/songwriter/entertainer Nataniël launched his solo career in 1987 with the release of his first single, "Maybe Time". Since then he has released 11 albums, staged more than 40 original theatre productions and published 9 books.

Over the past decade he has not only established himself as producer, director, designer, playwright and public speaker, but as South Africa's leading exponent of the solo stage act.

An outspoken and controversial figure, he continuously crosses over from the alternative circuit to the main stage, generating extensive media coverage and a massive cult following.

Nataniël records on his own independent label, Nataniël House Of Music. He also sings on one of our latest CD's
